

ॐ सर्वेशां स्वस्तिर्भवतु ।

May there be Well-Being in All!

Dear Colleagues

Namaskar!

I take great pride in welcoming you to this issue of Indian Journal of Clinical Anatomy and Physiology (IJCAP). On behalf of IJCAP, the editorial board and editorial team of our journal, I wish all the authors, patrons and readers a safe and happy Year 2021.

Indian Journal of Clinical Anatomy and Physiology was developed in the year 2014 to provide a platform to researchers for publication opportunities for their scholastic work. This is a peer reviewed, double blind journal which publishes articles in anatomy and physiology. We are able to ensure quality publication that gives ample scope to the researchers for improvement of quality of research. The central theme of journal revolves around anatomical and physiological research work with filling comprehensive gap between basic sciences and clinical practice.

I feel humbled and honoured to be the editor in chief of such a reputed journal. To follow the benchmark set by patron editor Dr. Brijendra Singh and previous editorial teams is a tough challenge. Nevertheless, our proficient editorial board and whole team is aspired to carry forward the legacy.

An inquisitive mind and a zest to learn and relearn is the mantra of advancement in the field of research. Considering NMC norms of promotion criteria of faculty, I am glad to announce that IJCAP team under the managerial leadership and hard work of Mrs. Nikita Pandit has applied and looking forward to a nod from DOAJ and PubMed indexing agencies. The editors of our journal have long standing and distinguished careers in their respective fields. My association with IJCAP has made me witness tremendous growth of the journal. The editorial board members and reviewers of our journal are committed in providing unbiased rapid evaluations of the submitted manuscripts. We will further strive to shorten the duration between submission and final publication. Our smooth online submission process for the articles will certainly be a pleasant experience to the authors. Main objective of the journal is to maintain quality benchmark of all the publications. The types of articles published include editorial, review, mini review, clinical research, systematic, meta-analysis, letter to editor, case report and work done in the field of medical education.

Finally, it gives me immense pleasure in concluding that IJCAP is a great platform for sharing and worldwide dissemination of knowledge and latest research. To keep up to its reputation of global scientific research reference point, I invite good quality papers from all of you and assure whole hearted support from the editorial team for smooth article submission process.

Looking forward to your continuing support and constructive inputs for improvement of the journal.

I wish the entire team of IESRF a successful campaign

With Best Wishes

Dr. Anu Sharma
Editor-in-chief (IJCAP)
Professor
Department of Anatomy
Dayanand Medical College & Hospital
Ludhiana (Punjab) India

